Grief-crazed Mother Cremates Herself

and Four Little Children. PITTSBURG (Kan.), November 13th.— There was a terrible sequel on Sunday night to the fearful mine disaster of Friday. Among the sixty victims who perished in the deadly shaft was Louis Bethune, a powerful Frenchman. On Sunthune, a powerful Frenchman. On Sunday morning his remains were brought to the surface in the cage, and as the men plosives. But, what is far more dangerous, were laying the bodies on the ground, his wife, Maria, burst through the line of spectators with a shriek and fell prostrate beside the bleeding and mangled corpse.

Tender hands bore the poor woman to her hutlike home over the hill, and one of the physicians, who had been on guard at the mouth of the shaft since Saturday, in the vain hope that some of the unfortunate miners may yet be living, restored her to when she came to she wife of a trusted employe of the miners may yet be living, restored her to when she came to she wife of a grantizer of and the warm they are to horrow money from the warm of these schools, and there consciousness. When she came to she seemed sullen and silent. Kindly neighbors tried to solace her, but their words of neither evinced sorrow nor made a reply to anybody. She was left in the hut with her five little children. The latter, all unconscious of the tragedy which had made them fatherless and wrecked their mother's mind, were romping over the rough pine floor, their childish voices ringing gleefully.

The neighbors went back to the shaft to watch the progress of the rescuers. THE DAZED MOTHER.

Mrs. Bethune sat for hours staring blankly at the floor. Her little ones tugged frantically at the skirts of her dress, repeatedly calling her, and tried other childish expedients to attract her attention. She did not seem to notice them. Her bereavment was so intense that she could think of nothing but the mangled body which was lying in the improvised morgue. Toward dark Mrs. Bethune seemed to recover from the trance. Jumping from her chair, she walked over to the rude bed and taking a sleeping infant in her arms she pressed it closely to her breast. The child woke and screamed faintly, as it frightened at the maternal embrace, but when it saw its mother's face its fear seemed to vanish. It cooed joyfully and buried its pudgy fists in its mother's hair.

Mrs. Bethune then approached her other children, kissed them one by one, and in children, kissed them one by one, and in return they caressed her fondly.

"Come with me." she commanded, breaking the silence for the first time. She passed through the narrow door and the

She knelt down beside it, removed a gunny-sack that covered the blood-besmeared face, and then poised the infant so that its innocent blue eyes could take in the revolting sight. The baby cooed and waved its little arms delightedly. Then the mother returned to her waiting children outside the deadhouse. She led them into the ghastly place, one by one, until all had seen the bloody features of their father, and then she led them home again.

So she lay very still and watched her mother, who was sitting close beside the stove. Mrs. Bethune scarcely moved for hours, and only once during that time did she avert her eyes from the floor. But the woman seemed to grow wilder and uncontrollable, and instead of ceasing the motion of her arms increased. She continued the pantomime for several minutes before she finally stopped, and then she walked over to the corner nearest the stove and picked up a coal oil can, part of the contents of which she deliberately poured over the skirt of her dress. The remainder of the oil she emp-tied upon the bed where the children were sleeping, peacefully unconscious of threat-ened harm or danger.

SAN FRANCISCO AGENCIES.

HE IS NOT A SPOILSMAN.

It was reported in our local columns Monday that certain Republicans who award of the speils to the victors," declare that there is nothing in the way of and prompt office delivery of all Democratic incumbents, because he was not elected upon a civil service platform. But he was. The Chicago platform reads:

he was. The Chicago platform reads:

The men who abandoned the Republican party in 1884 and continue to adhere to the Democratic party, have deserted not only the cause of honest government, of sound finance, of freedom or purity of the ballot, but especially have deserted the cause of reform in the civil service. We will not fail to keep our pledges because they have broken theirs, or because their candidate has broken his. We therefore repeat our declaration of 1884, to wit: "The reform of the civil service, au piciously begun under the Republican Administration, should be completed by the further extension of the reform system already established by law, to all the grades of the service to which it is applicable. The spirit and purpose of the reform should be observed in all Executive appointments, and all laws at variance with the object of existing reform legislation should be reof existing reform legislation should be repealed, to the end that the dangers to free in stitutions which lurk in the power of officia patronage may be wisely and effectively avoided."

That does not look as though the General was free, even if he desired to become a spoilsman. But in his letter of acceptance he distinctly and affirmatively indorsed the plank we have quoted. As far back as 1882 he announced himself a civil service reformer. In a speech delivered at Indianapolis on August 30th of that year he declared himself without reserve, and it will be noted in the quotation below that he forecast accurately concern ing the Democracy and what it would do if it should come again to power. Had he been invested with the gift of prophecy he could not have more definitely predicted the course of Mr. Cleveland in the matter of the reform of the civil service. If there are any people who are running away with the idea that President Harrison is going to be another Grover Cleveland and dispense official patronage to bolster partisan schemes, let them read the following from the speech of General Harrison referred to: I want to assure you to night that I am an advocate of civil service reform. My brief experience at Washington has led me to utter the wish, with an emphasis I do not often use, that I might be forever relieved of any connection with the distribution of public patronage. I covet for myself the free and unpurchased support of my fellow-citizens, and long to be able to give my time and energy solely to the public affairs that legitimately relate to the honorable trust which you have committed to me. It is easy for theorists to make suggestions upon the easy for theorists to make suggestions upon the subject which, in their opinion, would cure all existing eyils. I assure you it is more difficult to frame a law that shall be safe and practical in its application. I know that several Republican Senators gave much thought and study to this question during the last session. I believe the next session will witness the enactment of a law which, if it does not consummate, will at least auspiciously begin this reform. That there are sincere advocates of this reform in the Democrat'c party as in my own I do not deny. But easy for theorists to make suggestions upon th ocrat'c party as in my own I do not deny. But that this reform would be introduced by that party if they were to come now in the control of the Federal patronage, I do not think any sen-sible man believes. In some of the States, and in the Senate of the United States, the Demo-cratic party to day controls the patronage. Need cratic party to-day controls the patronage. Need I say that in the appointments made there we find no suggestion of civil service reform?

Scarcely any greater disaster could befall the new Republican Administration than to have it set up the block and ply the head man's ax in defiance of the civil service reform laws. Just so far as those laws extend, we believe General Harrison will observe and enforce them. Where the law has given place to incumbents under competitive examinations, and according to the proceeding provided by the law, we may rest assured they will continue in their trusts so long as they are honest and efficient. The rule of this Government will be for the future that subordinate officials shall not be dependent upon the politicians for retention of their places, nor shall they be taught that their first duty is to the party, but rather to the people they serve. The Republican press, that has already set up the cry, "Turn the rascals out," should at least modify their ecstacies to the limit of those offices which the law does not include in the reform of the civil service.

ELECTION MACHINERY.

The exceeding length of time taken in many counties, and notably in San Francisco to count the vote of the recent elec what will give you relief—flore of spoortie Prescription will soon set you from the state of the count in that matter. It should not reformation in that matter. It should not reformation in that matter. It should not san Francisco or in any other community. Some of the larger and moredensely set in getting precinct returns in, but these are exceptions. The great length of the ticket is offered as an excuse in San Francisco, but in that city they had relays of inspectors and judges. If it required seven minutes to read each ticket through, the count should have been completed in about forty-four hours, and this would give a margin of nearly three hours for delays, changing relays, clerks, etc.

While unofficial announcements of results are not now recognized by the law, there seems to be no good reason why they should not be. The news element in the tion, suggests that there ought to be some should not be. The news element in the affairs of life is of such value and interest to the public that there can be raised no reasonable objection to giving the public the news of the results of a count before sealing up the evidences. As now happens occasionally the election board seals up its returns without retaining any copy of the totals and thus, as happened in San Fran-cisco in the late election and in several the money. Measured off the five paces in precincts in outside counties, the election boards deprived the people of the news of the result. This was due to thoughtlessness; it is only the trained news-gatherer who thinks of the public demand for election news in advance of the official canvass of the precinct returns. The law might very well require election boards to make a duplicate of their report so far as totals are concerned for the convenience of news-gatherers. It could do no possible digestion and dyspepsia. Struck with the harm, and, indeed, might be the means of destimonials praising Joy's Vegetable Sarsaenting fraud in the handling of re | parilla, she sent for a h turns after the boards dissolve.

> The interest manifested in the specimens of wheat, and the inquiry made concerning the value of our state as a corn-growing State, having attracted my attention strongly. I made some inquiry of those manifesting that interest concerning the reasons therefor. I derived from their answers the general proposition that people familiar with the product which is made the criterion of value at home will make that same product the touchstone of merit as relates to other countries. * * * You will readily perceive the interest that is awakened in a mind unfamiliar with the products of California, when from a single orchard you may present specimens of oranges, lemons, limes, citrons, quinces, guava, plums, prunes, apricots, peaches, nectarines, dates, pomegranates, rears, apples, raisins, olives, figs, with the berries of the temperate and semi-tropical latitudes—grapes, wine, also fibrous plants from which useful and ornamental textile fabrics are woven, such as hemm, into flay reprise beside vitile. nia pears. In fact, traveling through the Western States one would conclude that pears were raised nowhere clse than in California. The very large number of persons who tasted of the grapes, prunes, plums, peaches, nectarines and other fruits, gratuitously distributed, declared that they had purchased California fruits before, but never any which equaled that distributed. It is more than probable the fruit they have purchased was not grown in this State. Inquiry elicited the information that a very large quantity of fruit could be sold throughout the Eastern States, if it were distributed through agencies which would bring it into the market at something like an economic rate. Grapes are selling in Chicago at $.00 a ton. At the outset, the cost of transportation to Chicago does not exceed $30 per ton. There was, therefore, a margin over the freight of $170 a ton. Wine grapes sold in this State this year from $12 to $15 a ton. Table grapes could be purchased for from $15 to $29 a for; but giving the grower the benefit of a high price, say $25 per ton, and the transportation agency $30, and you have $55 per ton as the cost to the commission merchant in Chicago. This leaves him a margin of $145 a ton. The greatest possible diligence was employed in making inquiry concerning a prob-ble market in various localities. Parties from southern Nebraska assured me that no California fruit had ever been offered in their vicinity, notwithstanding they were residing upon lines of railroads. Parties in Kansas gave the same assurance; the same tives. Messrs Pope and Macafee were introduced to the committee.

A letter was read from a resident of Stoneham, Mass., regarding cheap railroad rates for intending settlers in the State. He

> HOW FRUIT SHOULD BE SEIPPED How fruit should be shipped.

> As long as this is the case our fruit will reach the consumer at a price which will make it a luxury and deprive it of all value as a food. From my observation and inquiries I had reason to conclude that it would not be difficult to organize fruit agencies in all of the principal towns east of the Missouri river. Their distribution should be undertaken by an express company such as the American, Adams or Wells, Fargo & Co. A train load of truit leaving California bound eastward should be broken at Omaha, or if sent to Chicago should be broken fornia bound eastward should be broken at Omaha, or if sent to Chicago should be broken there and distributed to the different distributing centers. At these centers orders could be placed on file for the quantity desired at much smaller places. In this way the fruits in their various sensons could be dis ributed to a population of from 20,000,000 to 35,000,000 of people. We can place all kinds of fruits in Eastern markets from two to three months earlier than they ripen in any part of the country—north of Tennessee, North Carolina and Arkansas. In this general region there are over forty millions of Tennessee, North Carolina and Arkansas. In this general region there are over forty millions of people, a very large proportion of whom would become consumers could the fruit be turnished to them at anything like an economic rate. The fault does not lie with the transportation companies. The instance given will illustrate this. Grapes are sold at $200 a ton in Chicago, thus denying the people in the middle and lower circumstances of life the privilege of even tasting them; and yet the freight charge against the grapes in that worked is but $60. gainst the grapes in that market is but $30; against the grapes in that market is but $30 at ton, or 1½ cents a pound. It is quite probable that at $50 or $100 at on the amount consumed in Chicago would more than double, and yet this figure would leave a very fair mercantile profit to those engaged in the fruit trade. THE MARKET FOR OUR PRODUCTS. It was the testimony of many persons that their locality would take at all seasons of the year a steady supply in considerable quantity of California products. By a method of distribution, which it is not difficult to devise, we can place California fruit in every railroad town in the Eastern States; and even a small quantity, beying that every the convergence of the converge having that quantity proportioned to the population of the locality, would require five times the present annual production of this State to supply, at a rate which would place the fruits of California with other food, and a system of distribution which would bring the fruit within reach of the present. distribution which would bring the fruft within reach of the people. There are sufficient numbers of consumers in the northern portion of the United States to take all the truit California will produce, when this State has five millions of people, with the same proportion of people engaged in fruit-growing that the number now so engaged bears to the population at the present time; or, to state this in another form, there is market for five times the present annual product of fruit in California,

On behalf of this Board, I presented these considerations clearly to one of the leading railroad operators and financiers of New York. I was listened to with the most careful attention, and when the case had been presented, I was assured that the proposition of distributing through a transportation agency organized on a similar plan to that of Wells, Fargo & Co., or the other express agencies of America, was entirely feasible, and that it only required a strong presentation of the matter to capitalists and railroad companies to secure the organization of railroad companies to secure the organization such a distributing agency at an early date. In this, I have only considered the subject as re lates to green fruits, because our most profitable market is perhaps the green fruit which may be ntains. As to cured fruits ob sumed in States east of the Sierra Nevada immediately to the conclusion that we had the world for a market. Upon this general subject I secured an interview with a leading wholesale dealer in the city of New York. Raisins were the subject of the interview. From the information obtained, I am fully persuaded that California will produce all the raisins consumed in this country and that the encouragement of the great leading dealers can be secured by a proper presentation of the subject to their attention. LAND VALUES IN CALIFORNIA Mr. Mills called attention to the rapid growth values still obtain, and where, therefore, developed values may inure to the settler.

Developed values in real estate in the States west of the Alleghany Mountains rarely exceed $50 an acre. There are exceptional instances, I found so ne lands in Northern Ohio held at $450 an acre, but the price included valuable improvements. Divested of improvement, I found $50 and $60 an acre to be a fully deveioped valuation for agricultural lands. Very near to cities, where some special advantages for residence might be enjoyed, a premium of from $10 to $20 an acre would be placed upon the land; but $50 an acre is a full average valuation for standard land. The reason for this is that the products of land have climatic limitations. Fifty dollars an acre is a high price for land where the climatic limitations stop at the production of corn and wheat. There is a broad zone in which these products are grown. For a long period the current market rate for them has been about the same. If it were sudently discovered that the land; it he rectibers. them has been about the same. If it were suddenly discovered that the lands in the northern temperate zone were capable of producing an article more highly profitable than those to which they have been devoted, the price of agricultural land or land adapted to the growth of a more profitable article would range higher a

The Profitable uses of Land.

The intending immigrant, upon making inquiry concerning the average value of good, including lanks have other country. The list is given merely from memory, and may be chargeable with many omissions but enough is presented to give you an adequate idea of the impression which such a list must necessarily make on an intelligent mind.

Recurring to the statement already made that a country possessing advantages for the prosecution of an industry with which an individual is already familiar, necessarily has attractions for that individual—it will be apparent that california's appeal is to the entire world. Corn is king of the North and cotton is king in the South. California's appeal is coqually 'strong to the subjects of the e industrial kings. * **

The Batch of Criminals Who Appeared Canvassing the Election Returns-Other The Huntington-Hopkins Thieves Run in the Police Court Yesterday.

There was a large attendance of specta ors in the Police Court yesterday morning Lad wlong calendar, but continuances and dismissals took all the interest out of the proceedings. The principal interest centered in the case of J. W. Hughes, charged by Mrs. J. B. Saunders with battery, bo the complaining witness did not put in a: appearance, and the case was postpone antil half-past 2 o'clock.

Grace Cook appeared to answer to a charge of disturbing the peace of her neighbor, Mrs. George Chadwick, but she had made ample apologies for the bad lan guage she had used, and Mrs. Chadwick had forgiven her and did not want to pro secute the case. It was therefore dismissed on motion of the prosecution.

W. S. Irwin was partially tried on a charge of disturbing the peace. He had been arrested by officer Eldred, and in resisting the officer had broken a window in a street car. The case was continued unti this morning to secure the attendance o the street-car driver.

The case of Mrs. Columbo, charged with buying and receiving stolen property, was inued until November 224. She is ac cused of buying grain that was stolen by the boys Ruggles, Cole and McCarthy.
Frank J. Smith was charged with embezzlement, but the case was dismissed for want of prosecution.

H. P. Metcalf acknowledged that he had been drunk, but as it was his first offense he was discharged. Ed. Rand, charged with the same offense could not plead that he was a "first-timer," and was sent to jail for thirty days, Alexander Kinny, alias Big Jim, was accused of petit larceny, but the case was continued until to-day. He is the man who it is alleged stole watch chains from two different jewelry stores and sold them.

The case of Frank C. Hanison, charged with grand larceny, was continued until to-day. He is charged with appropriating to his own use certain funds belonging to the Cigarmaker's International Union of the United States of America. The continuance was granted on motion of his

HIS LIFE SPARED.

Governor Waterman Commutes the Sentence of a Chinaman. Governor Waterman has commuted to mprisonment the sentence of Ah Jake, a to reside in Willows, Colusa county. Chinaman convicted of murder in Sierra county in October, 1887, and sentenced to be hanged. The Governor says: "I find that the act committed by Ah Jake was, to a certain extent, in self-defense, which phase of the case has clearly been set forth in a letter written by J. A. Vaughn, editor of the Downieville Messenger, a journal of character and standing. The person killed by Ah Jake was a fellow countryman, who om the surrounding circumstances, me his death in an attempt to rob Ah Jake, but the perjury of the witnesses and the defense in not having his case properly presented to the Court, resulted in no de fense at all. Judge Soward has written me a very strong appeal in favor of commuting the sentence of Ah Jake, to one of im-prisonment for life, and presents incontrocontinued until half-past one this afternoon.

The Legislature.

The returns, although not all yet officially announced, are sufficiently certain to insure the statement that the Republicans have elected 15 out of 20 State Senators, carrying every district outside of San Francisco, except the Twenty-ninth, which elects Langford (D.) With the hold-overs, of which there are 16 Democrats and 4 Re publicans, the former will have a majority of two in the upper house. By the death of Sensior Chandler (R), who represented Yuba and Sutter, a vacancy is made in the Senate, which will be filled by a special election. It is thought that C. P. Berry D.) will aspire to fill the vacancy, but the apublicans of the Twelfth District will seek to make good the party representation of the late Senator Chandler, and would not regard it as complimentary to them to sug gest any possibility of their failure to do s in this Republican year of 1888. The Republicans elected 47 Assemblymen out o 80—six more than two years ago. On joint ballot the Republicans will probably have a somewhat during the week, and no liberal Wool transactions were negotiated. There is good movement reported at the East, while the tone of the market, both there and here, is one of confidence, and holders are firm in their asking prices for all grades. The stock on hand is light for this time of the year, and it is more than likely that it will be exhausted long before the next clip is ready for market. Prices generally have more buoyant character.
